Reasons To Participate In The Pilot Test

- MSSC invites you to help validate their recently revised certification examination
- Earn the new nationally and industry-recognized MSSC "Production Technician" certification
- An MSSC certification-based articulation pathway in Florida grants 15 credit hours toward the Engineering Technology degree at several of Florida's community colleges
- Help build a industry certification-based production workforce throughout Florida
- Certification will provide a major advancement to Florida's workforce investment system
- Each assessment only costs "$5.00"

Who Should Participate - MSSC is soliciting participants—on a first-come, first-serve basis—to pilot test during January-February 2008 their newly updated "Production Technician" certification examination assessments. Participants should include:

- Entry-level and incumbent manufacturing technicians and production supervisors
- High school and college faculty that teach manufacturing technology/related courses and are seeking certification
- Currently certified technicians wanting to extend their certification to six years

The Examination - Each Florida MSSC Assessment Center can offer all four assessments:

- Manufacturing Processes & Production
- Quality Practices & Measurement
- Safety
- Maintenance Awareness

Location - Hillsborough Community College at Brandon - Student Services Room 203

Dates & Times - Weekdays - January 14 to February 15, 2008 - 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.
